

the CITY OF FRUITA could save
$513,993 ANNUALLY (64.9%) on employee health insurance

if voters approve Amendment #69 ColoradoCare

Why the big savings?

A universal health care system—private providers paid with combined funds—reduces layers of administrative costs; allows for bulk purchasing of drugs and medical equipment; and reduces fraud and duplication.

How are savings calculated? Economist Gerald Friedman, Ph.D., analyzed health care spending in Colorado and calculated that comprehensive health coverage for every resident could be paid for with pre-tax payroll premiums of 6.67% for employers; 3.33% for employees; (and 10% on non-payroll income).

A. Cost of health care insurance for the city of Fruita 2013<sup>1</sup>:

Health Insurance Premiums	$ 727,169
Medical Portion (59% <sup>2</sup> ) of Workers’ Comp Premiums	64,600
Total Cost for Health Care Insurance	$ 791,769

B. Cost with the Colorado Health Care Cooperative:

City of Fruita in 2013	$ 4,164,401
Cooperative Employer Premiums are 6% of Payroll	x .0667
Total Cost with the Colorado Health Care Cooperative	$ 277,776

The difference between A and B means a saving to the city of $514,003 and a reduction in the cost of health care coverage from 19% of payroll to a simple 6.67% with the medical portion of workers' comp included.

Under the Cooperative, employees would pay just 3.33% of salary for family health coverage--a significant decrease for many employees. If employers took the option of paying part or the entire employee share at the full 10%, the City of Fruita would still save $375,329.

Additional savings not measured include:

- Employer time spent administering health care benefits and the medical portion of workers’ comp
- Employee work time spent learning about the employer’s health plan and workers’ comp medical

Good news for employees: New hires and part-time employees would have health care coverage for themselves and their dependents and would be able to continue care with the health professionals of their choice. There would be no co-insurance or deductibles. With modest co-pays, which could be waived for financial difficulty, the Cooperative out-of-pocket expenses would be substantially less than with existing policies. Cooperative medical coverage is comprehensive, and would include mental health and designated dental, vision, and hearing benefits.
